

Russ Mason, President Investment Management Institute

<http://www.investmentmanagementinstitute.com/>

About the Investment Management Institute:

The Investment Management Institute (IMI) is a leading research and education organization for institutional investors and wealthy families around the world. Established in Greenwich, Connecticut in 1981, IMI has acquired an extensive network of over 25,000 institutional investor connections. This includes a strong affiliation with senior investment officers at leading endowments and foundations, corporate and public pension funds, nuclear decommissioning trusts (NDTs), asset consultants, faith-based organizations, funds of funds, and family offices. These relationships, coupled with our association with countless money managers operating in the $25 trillion asset management industry, has proven IMI more than capable of shedding light in these somewhat bleaker times.

Our comprehensive understanding of current investment trends, knowledge of institutional investors' perspective in the global marketplace, and our research regarding issues with product requirements and needs, truly distinguishes IMI.

IMI provides a forum for which this multitude of knowledge can be interpreted. This is accomplished through our sponsored roundtables, discussion panels, and congresses. Combined with focused networking, our programs can create an environment where participants are able to explore issues and innovations impacting portfolio performance, fiduciary duties, and investment returns.

IMI also conducts and publishes detailed weekly newsletters, research analyses, and newswires pertaining to industry developments, economic trends and the legal consequences affecting investment management.