BARRA RogersCasey

1997-2000

Managing Director

Hired to determine the business viability of providing investment services to financial intermediaries and to establish a business unit to focus on those services. BRC had a few financial intermediary clients spread among different consulting groups with no consolidated business development plan and no emphasis on growing this segment of the business.

- After review of existing clients, market potential, BRC consulting capabilities, competition and profit potential, determined there was a very attractive business opportunity to “joint venture” on a revenue sharing basis with financial intermediaries to develop and implement products for the individual investor market.

- Increased the business unit’s revenues 150% to $3,000,000 and provided almost 30% of BRC total profits in the 2000 fiscal year. Developed a highly effective team that received significant praise from clients for quality of work, creativity and ultimate contribution to the success of the products.
